SSOBC January Employee Spotlight Judy Swallie

Judy has been a Nutritional Driver with SSOBC since November 2009.

Judy has been a life-long resident of Barnesville and was raised by her grandparents who always told her and her sister that they were number 1 in their eyes. While in middle school and high school, Judy never missed a day in 10 years.

Judy tells everyone that she hates to see the weekend come because she misses delivering the meals and seeing her consumers.

When Judy, isn't at work you can find her playing softball or rooting for her Pittsburgh Steelers.

Judy often tells people she meets that this is the most favorite job she has ever had.

Avoiding Accidents and Falls on Stairs

Did you know that falls are the number-one cause of injuries and trauma-related hospital admissions among seniors? Accidents while walking up or down the stairs are usual places for seniors to suffer debilitating injuries in the home.

Unfortunately, as seniors advance in age, the risks increase as they begin losing their balance more frequently. They also lose strength and muscle mass, experience decreased vision and mobility, and become more disoriented or confused. And when they fall, conditions like osteoporosis can make an accident more harmful.

Stair Safety Tips to Prevent Falls

Most falls occur around the home, and the primary culprit – the stairway. Here are some tips and suggestions to help senior loved ones avoid fall hazards on the stairs:

- Stair maintenance

Steps that are damaged, wobbly, or rotten can be a risk. Regularly inspect stairs closely for any signs of disrepair.

- Good lighting

When the elderly cannot see the stairs properly due to poor lighting, they may slip or stumble. Make sure the entire length of the stairs is well lit, the light switch is in an easy-to-reach location, and lightbulbs are in working order.

- Proper footwear

Suitable shoes can help reduce trips and falls. Encourage your loved one to wear shoes or slippers that have a strong grip and avoid using socks or older and worn-out footwear.

- Stair coverings

Avoid bare wooden stairs that can be very slippery. Remove old, worn-out carpeting and replace it with a new, non-slip tread. Install rubber or vinyl matting for older adults who dislike carpeted stairs. Consider highlighting the edge of the stairs with bright paint or tape for your loved one to know where to step.

- Handrails

Install handrails on stairs if your loved one does not have them. Handrails should be easy to grip and support your loved one's weight.

No matter how safe you make your loved one's stairs, these tips will not help if they do not follow them. Make sure to check up on them regularly and remind them to keep practicing stair safety.

January's Super Seniors

This month I would like to honor the three officers that passed away recently. Ron Toohey was the Barnesville Senior Center President. He was very helpful around the Center. He loved to dance, play cards and sit outside on the glider.

Barb Tetlow was one of our trustees for the Barnesville Center. She also loved playing cards. Her crippling arthritis got so bad she couldn't visit the center.

Rahph Lucas was another one of our trustees. He loved to joke, tease, and scare anyone. He was the "Mister Fix It" on anything that broke at the Center.

Again I would like to thank them for all the help around the Barnesville Senior Center.

Connecting Communities to Resources

To Start Anew

The holiday season is over. Our homes may feel quieter and perhaps a little bare after our loved ones have returned to their respective homes and the decorations have been stored away. Now is the time when we start talking of getting back to the daily grind, but it is also the time for new beginnings.

January is Mental Wellness Month, a time dedicated to promoting the value of mental wellness for people of all ages. Just as many of us may have created New Year's Resolutions, this is the prime time to reflect on our mental health and decide what we can do to improve our mental wellness. Even the smallest steps can make a tremendous difference.

April Cox with Discovery Mood & Anxiety Program, provides suggestions on what you can implement in the New Year to boost your overall well-being:

1) Rest Up

Our brains and body work together; physical health and mental health affect one another. Without proper rest, our bodies and brains do not get the daily reset they need. Create a peaceful space for rest void of electronics and take breaks through the day as needed.

Tea Time Tuesdays

Mornings can be rough sometimes, but having someone to share a cup of tea or joe can make the morning grind seem a little easier.

We hope you will join us for Tea Time Tuesdays- happening virtually every 2nd Tuesday of the month. If you can't stomach tea, coffee (or any other morning beverage) is acceptable- we won't tell. We hope you can be a part of making our morning, a good morning.

Join us Jan 11th @ 7:30am on Zoom for Tea Time

2) Be present

Being more "mindful" is a trendy catchphrase, but what does that look like exactly? Mindfulness can look different depending on the person. The core of being mindful is to be present, aware, and accepting of what is in the moment. While it's a newer concept and sometimes difficult for the future-oriented planner, it can be practiced in small moments. Examples: meditating by practicing belly breaths for 3 minutes and noticing how your breath flows through the body, doing emotional checks for yourself and asking what you're feeling and practicing non-judgement toward that emotion, or simply being more present while enjoying a meal by noticing the smells, the taste, and the textures.

3) Ask for support

These past few years have been challenging for many of us with feeling disconnected by the pandemic. We have searched for new and creative ways to carry out our daily tasks and to stay in touch. Our species thrives on interconnectedness and social distancing has tested us. It is okay to struggle more than others with this disconnect. It is okay to ask for help. Reach out to a friend, family member, or colleague for support. If you feel that you might need more assistance, we encourage you to find a mental health professional that fits your needs. Just as we visit a primary care physician for our bodily ailments, a mental health professional is trained to help the brain recover. While you may not connect with everyone, there is someone who can meet your specific needs.

HEAP Winter Crisis

The Home Energy Assistance Winter Crisis Program (HEAP Winter Crisis Program) helps income eligible Ohioans that are threatened with disconnection, have been disconnected or have less than a 25 percent supply of bulk fuel in their tank maintain their utility service. The program runs from November 1 until March 31. Ohio households, serviced by a Public Utilities Commission of Ohio-regulated utility, must sign up for the Percentage of Income Payment Plan Plus (PIPP) or another payment plan in order to receive emergency benefits.

The program runs from November 1 until March 31. Who is Eligible for the Winter Crisis Program?

Ohioans with a household income at or below 175 percent of the federal poverty guidelines that are facing disconnection, have been disconnected or have less than a 25 percent supply of bulk fuel in their tank are eligible for the program.

For November 2021-March 2022, the income levels are:

Size of Household	Total Household Income 12 Months

4	up to $46,375
5	up to $54,320
6	up to $62,265
7	up to $70,210
8	up to $78,155

For households with more than eight members, add $7,945 for each additional member.

A household applying for HEAP must report total gross household income for the past 30 days (12 months preferred) for all members, except wage or salary income earned by dependent minors under 18 years old. Both homeowners and renters are eligible for assistance.

Short Story Humor

Can You Hear That?

An old man decided his old wife was getting hard of hearing. He called her doctor to make an appointment to have her hearing checked.

The doctor said he could see her in 2 weeks, and meanwhile, there's a simple, informal test the husband could do to give the doctor some idea of the dimensions of the problem.

"Here's what you do. Start about 40 feet away from her, and speak in a normal conversational tone and see if she hears you. If not, go to 30 feet, then 20 feet, and so on until you get a response."

So that evening she's in the kitchen cooking dinner, and he's in the living room, and he says to himself, "I'm about 40 feet away, let's see what happens."

"Honey, what's for supper?" No response.

So he moves to the other end of the room, about 30 feet away. "Honey, what's for supper?" No response.

So he moves into the dining room, about 20 feet away. "Honey, what's for supper?" No response. On to the kitchen door, only 10 feet away. "Honey, what's for supper?" No response.

So he walks right up behind her. "Honey, what's for supper?" "For the 5th time, CHICKEN!"

Sharing and Marriage

An old man and his wife went to their local fast food restaurant. The man placed an order for one hamburger, French fries, and a drink. He unwrapped the plain hamburger and carefully cut it in half, placing one half in front of his wife.

He then carefully counted out the French fries, dividing them into two piles and neatly placed one pile in front of his wife. He took a sip of the drink, his wife took a sip and then set the cup down between them. As he began to eat his few bites of hamburger, the people around them were looking over and whispering.

Obviously they were thinking, "That poor old couple-all they can afford is one meal for the two of them."

As the man began to eat his fries a young man came to the table and politely offered to buy another meal for the old couple. The old man said, they were just fine-they were used to sharing everything.

People closer to the table noticed the little old lady hadn't eaten a bite. She sat there watching her husband eat and occasionally taking turns sipping the drink. Again, the young man came over and begged them to let him buy another meal for them. This time the old woman said "No, thank you, we are used to sharing everything."

Finally, as the old man finished and was wiping his face neatly with the napkin, the young man again came over to the little old lady who had yet to eat a single bite of food and asked "What is it you are waiting for?"

She answered, 'The teeth!'

Her 4th Marriage

A local news station was interviewing an 80-year-old woman on why she had recently got married for the 4th time. They wanted to know her secret for finding love again and again.

The interviewer asked her a few questions about her life, and about what it felt like to be a bride again at age 80. Then he asked what her new husband did for a living.

"He's a funeral director," she answered.

The newswoman was surprised at her answer, and wondered who else she had married. He then asked her if she wouldn't mind telling him a little about her first three husbands and what they did for a living.

She paused for a few moments, needing time to reflect on all those years. Her life had been full of exciting moments, especially with three husbands.

After a short time, a smile came to her face and she answered proudly, explaining that she had first married a banker when she was in her 20's, then a circus ringmaster when in her 40's, and a preacher when in her 60's and now in her 80's - a funeral director.

The interviewer looked at her, quite astonished, and asked why she had married four men with such diverse careers.

She smiled and explained, "I married one for the money, two for the show, three to get ready, and four to go."
